ABOUT WELLY

Project WELLY addresses the impact of the physical and psychosocial work environment on the health and well-being of employees. It's necessary mapping competencies that a manager should own to be able to implement a correct approach for preventing and reducing stress at work.

This is what the WELLY project will do and, once the management competencies needed for engendering employee engagement, health and well-being will be identified, the challenge becomes supporting managers to develop the competencies and use them in their people management approach.

Looking for Employees

Under Intellectual Output 1: ANALYSIS OF THE STATE OF THE ART ON WORK WELLBEING we are carrying out a summary of literature and collection of case studies of companies that applied tools and rules to manage and guarantee the organizational well-being. Also, an empirical research will be conducted to gather data directly from the companies (employers and employees) and associations for the protection of workers' rights. To conduct this research, we need a large number of employees who are willing to fulfil the Web Survey which is available on our website (in each language).

If you are employed and would like to make a contribution to the project, do not hesitate and start with the Web Survey. (choose the language)
